Leaders in Communities Award 2020 Letter of Reference

This letter certifies that Isobel Beasley has successfully completed the requirements of the Leaders in Communities Award at the University of Melbourne. The Award is also listed on their academic transcript and Australian Higher Education Graduate Statement.

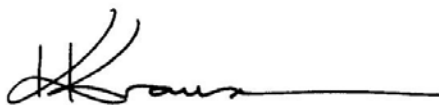

The Leaders in Communities Award recognises students who have undertaken community volunteering, increased their university co-curricular and extra-curricular participation, and developed their employability and leadership skills.

To achieve the Award, students must meet the following minimum requirements:

- Volunteer Ventures – 40 hours of volunteering in the community
- University Action – 20 hours of contributing to the University community
- Professional Development – attendance to four professional development and leadership skills sessions delivered by the University or an external organisation

The University of Melbourne is committed to preparing well-rounded graduates who are academically outstanding, practically grounded and socially responsible.

Kind regards,

Professor Kerri-Lee Krause

Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Student Life) and Deputy Provost
